SHOOTING SCRAPE IN CALLE DIAVOLO

Juarez Soldiers Start Trouble Thursday Night. One Hurt

A small sized battle took place in the tenderloin in Ciudad Juarez Thursday night between insurrection soldiers, and resulted in the wounding of one in the leg and the arrest of another. There were several heads bruised and shots fired.

The fight started by the discharging of a pistol by a drunken man, the bullet wounding one of a group. Instantly there was a large crowd of soldiers in the street and a general mixup resulted. The police were unable to handle the men for some time.

CUSTOMS GUARDS IN JUAREZ JAIL

An opium house on Calle Mena, in Ciudad Juarez, was raided by the police, Thursday night and three pipes, a small quantity of opium and other smoking paraphernalia were seized. Fashionable Millinery

at Popular Prices

Here is a field where our leadership is universally conceded. All El Paso knows that, quality and style considered, our prices are distinctly lower than those of any other local house.

Our this season's assortment of millinery at $5.00 and $10.00 is a triumph of successful merchandising. The styles, the finish and quality of these hats are superior to those shown elsewhere at $7.50 and $15.00. There are no two models alike, consequently we urge you to make an early selection.

Mrs. Lamm was born in a Presbyterian family but soon after her husband's death she became an Episcopalian. In 1909 she joined the Roman Catholic church.

IMPORTANT LAND DECISIONS MADE

Supreme Court of New Mexico Clears Titles to Land

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 1.—The supreme court adjourned this afternoon to meet again on November 27 to dispose of all business possible before giving way to the state and federal courts of the new state.

The court is entirely up with its docket and handed down a number of opinions this afternoon, the most important and far-reaching in its consequences, growing out of the partition of the Alameda land grant of 90,000 acres in Sandoval and Bernalillo counties among more than 500 claimants, 450 being descendants or heirs of the original grantees, or purchasers from him and his heirs, and about 100 being pioneer settlers or descendants or purchasers from them. The court held that the early settlers acquired title through settling in good faith within the grant boundaries and that the title derived from these pioneers is good. The decision says the title to hundreds of settlers upon land grants in all parts of the territory, but whose titles should be clouded, had been derived from original grantee of the grant.
